

Features

A good question is, how can I know what the name of the features I select in the builder is going to be in the JavaScript Modernizr global. A good rule of thumb is it's usually all lowercase with no spaces in the feature name.

For example, for flexbox it's `Modernizer.flexbox`. A good reference to see all the feature tech names and what your current browser support is a Modernizr test width page. This page will display all of them in green when supported and red when not.

Dev tools

Another way is using the browser dev tools. Browser's console will automatically suggest you some options when you start typing, for example by issuing `Modernizer.fl` you'll see all the property names that start with "fl".
