

Creating a Desktop Wireframe

We will now wireframe the home page for the desktop screen size. The main from the tablet size wireframe is the the blog section is now expanded to two columns after the featured blog post. This gives the featured article more attention, as well as uses the expanded screen size of a desktop more effectively. Other differences are that the footer links are now all in one row.

As we're laying out the different components, we'll make sure to think of the principles of design we covered earlier. Even though this isn't the actual design itself, it still helps to make sure that we're laying a good foundation for it.

Business

The Sure-Fire Way to Get Paid on Time Every Time

March 23, 2016 0 Comments

Business

Marketing

Lifestyle

Creativity

Business

The Ultimate Guide to Paying Taxes for Freelancers in the States

August 23, 2016 0 Comments

Creativity

Figuring Out Pricing for Your Services

February 23, 2016 0 Comments

Lifestyle

The Best Places to Find Inspiration

March 23, 2016 0 Comments

Podcast

FJ Ep204: How to Make Your Service Remarkable

March 23, 2016 0 Comments

Lifestyle

Working Outside of Your Home

April 4, 2016 0 Comments

Marketing

Getting Your First Three Clients

August 22, 2016 0 Comments

Lifestyle

All About Taxes

March 23, 2016 0 Comments

Podcast

FJ Ep203: Roadmapping Sessions with Brennan Dunn

March 23, 2016 0 Comments

Lifestyle

How to Get Referrals From Other Freelancers and Grow Your Business

April 4, 2016 0 Comments

Marketing

The Best Marketing Your Can Do is to Add Value

August 22, 2016 0 Comments

Popular Posts

Boosting Your Blog Traffic And Destroying The Competition

Types Of Paper In Catalog Printing

Buy Youtube Views

Compatible Inkjet Cartridge

Load More

Optin Header Goes Here

Optin Subheader

Email

Submit