

Installing Meteor

To install Meteor, visit <http://meteor.com/install>.

- If you're a Windows user, download the installer. This is an executable file that will guide you through the installation process as if you were installing any other kind of program.
- If you are a Mac or Linux user, copy the command that's shown in the installation section and paste it into the command line application. This command will connect to install.meteor.com, download the latest version of the software, and install it.
